BODEGAS SAN ANTONIO ABAD

San Antonio Abad is a cooperative located in the province of Toledo, Castilla La Mancha with 450 members that together harvest over 2,000 hectares of vineyards. San Antonio is one of the very few wineries in Spain (and the world) using the flash-detente technology, an expensive piece of equipment that yields fresh, fruit-forward wines by heating the grapes and then sending them to a vacuum chamber to be cooled. This technology increases extraction from red grapes while minimizing bitter seed tannin and pyrazine (vegetal) odors.

THE LAND

Extreme continental climate, ranging from the 5°F in the winter to 115°F in the summer. Dryness is one of its most distinct characteristics, since its micro-climate prevents the entry of moist winds, presenting a low rainfall (300 to 400 mm per year), thus La Mancha is primarily a dry flat, farming plateau with over 3,000 hours of sunshine a year that yield beautifully-ripened fruit.
